It's October and the big question here is whether our Canadian friends will be able to visit this season.

We're waiting with crossed fingers for October 21, when a decision will be made whether to reopen the US/Canadian border. We miss you guys and look forward to seeing you sooner, rather than later!

In the meantime, Uncle Bob is finishing up the new landscaping along Cathedral Canyon Drive. This project will make a better impression on members and guests arriving as well as everyone from the community as they drive by.

While we always do our best to provide great activities and food events at the park, there is so much more to see and do in the area. One of the most beautiful areas that many visitors never experience is Whitewater Preserve, which is within minutes driving time from the park.

Whitewater Preserve is comprised of 2,851 acres surrounded by the Bureau of Land Management's

San Geronio Wilderness and the Whitewater River, which provides a reliable, year-round water source for native and migrating birds like the endangered southwestern willow flycatcher and least Bell's vireo, while affording birdwatchers the opportunity to also see migrating summer tanagers and vermilion flycatchers.

of the activities cancelled; all the fun things planned just didn't seem possible. Employees and managers who stay in the campground were stuck, but that didn't stop us!

We all hung in here waiting for the hurricane, staked our campers down and stayed put. Even after IDA went on about her merry way and left us with no electricity for five days, the managers and employees decided that we were going to have Labor Day festivities and this hurricane wasn't going to stop us!

On the first morning following the storm, we all woke up early and worked 'til dark, cutting down trees, fixing campsites, doing everything that needed done and with everyone pitching in, we saved Labor Day weekend!

My favorite memory is the week of Hurricane Ida. Yes, I know it sounds crazy for that one to be my favorite but let me tell you why it is; when the hurricane came through, it just about destroyed Labor Day weekend. All
